The APPEAL acknowledges the receipt of ex Controller Hallock's report, set with the compliments of Controller Horton; also the report of Surveyor-General Jones. Both are exhaustive and carefully prepared documents.

Battle Mountain contains a number of haunted houses, to which fact the occupants of the haunted dwellings will swear. Unearthly sounds are heard in the bewitching hours at night when ghost revel through our streets, murmurs issue from the walls and pandemonium reigns.

A Ghost Dance at Carson.

On Thursday evening next, January 22, Poachontas Tribe, No. 2, of this city, Apache Tribe, No. 6, of Gold Hill, and Minnehaha Tribe, No. 3, of Reno, will gather at Carson to hold a pow-wow with Piute Tribe, No. 1, of that city. Grand Sachem Grant Marsh and all the Chief of the Great Council will be present. There will be a grand raising up of the Chief-elect a big feast, a poker game among the squaws, and a good deal of squaw-king among the papooses—the whole to concluded with a genuine ghost dance in which Man-Afraid-Of-His-Woodpile Crosby will set the pace.—Enterprise.

VARIOUS OPINIONS.

Calculated to Give the Legislature Some Idea of What Is Best To Do.

The Gazette files the following additional opinions to its query as to what law would be most beneficial for the incoming Legislature to pass:

GLESDALE, Jan. 13.

Editor Gazette: The most beneficial law for the incoming Legislature to pass for the benefit of Nevada would be to amend the State Land law to conform as near as possible to the pre-emption law of the general government. Large land holders are a curse to any community or country that tolerates them.

Geo. Alt.

WADSWORTH, Jan. 14,

Editor Gazette: From my observations, as a member of the Nevada Legislature for several terms, I have come to the conclusion that the question is, and has been for years past, between the tax payers and the tax eaters. If ever there was a commonwealth or community cursed and blighted by any one thing more than another, than this poor State is gnawed and eaten and cursed by the band of marauding tax eaters who hold high carnival within her borders. A scourge of Kansas grasshoppers, or "Sitting Bull's" hostile band couldn't hold a candle to them. With enough State officers with hidflutin titles and fat salaries to govern a State the size of New York, they sit with folded hands from one year's end to another trying to govern a little community that would not, in the Eastern States, hardly pass for a respectable village, and study up some easy plan of spending their salaries or in connecting some way of making another hole in the government to be filled by some fossilized dead-head and broken down politician.

The incoming Legislature should assert its dignity and rights and obey the will of the people and call a Constitutional Convention. Then if they don't see to it that the State and county governments are overhauled, and the expenses put on a common and equitable basis with our resources then, I say, God help them.

W. H. A. PIKE.

CARSON, Jan. 12, 1891.

A. C. Bragg—Dear Sir: I would state that in my judgment the most important law to this State would be one reducing the rate of taxation as much as possible. I think the State Government can be run at least 25 per cent. less than it now is, and I think that a combination of counties would also save 25 per cent. more on the rate of taxation. Yours truly,

F. G. FOLSON.

WINNEMUCA, Jan. 14, 1891.

A. C. Bragg, Esq., Reno, Nev.—Dear Sir: I will say that in my judgment the most beneficial law for Nevada for the incoming Legislature to pass, would be a law reducing the cost of maintaining our government, both State and county, to a figure commensurate with the service exacted and performed. Yours, very truly,

G. L. NIXON.

A Startling Pamphlet.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—A startling looking pamphlet was sent around the Capitol to-day.

It was entitled "The Stricken Nation," and recounted the terrible fate of this country at the hands of the malignant Britishers in the year 1893.

The story is intended as an awful warning to Congress on the subject of coast defenses.

The front of the book is devoted to pictures—queer and vivid pictures—of the destruction of New York.

In the foreground a very demoralized statue of Liberty, aimless and tottering, looks out despairingly on every ship that passes by, and there are a number of them on the bay and river sending up sheets of flame while New York city itself presents the appearance of a volcano in active operation.

On the rear cover a still more depressing picture represents Washington city sinking under the shells of our neighbors over the sea.

The Capitol is very far gone. The statue of Freedom on the dome has toppled over, while sheets of flame are issuing from the apex. The building itself has been turned completely around by the force of the bombardment.

The poor Washington monument has been broke off like a stick of candy.

If this pamphlet does not have the desired effect our legislators are not susceptible to fear.

Ghost Dancing in Esmeralda.

News comes that the Indians are ghost dancing in Esmeralda county, and raising the devil in the borax marshes near Rhodes Station. A couple of weeks ago an Indian came there and claimed to be the Messiah, and the Indians say that he stood for twenty minutes in a blazing fire bare footed, with his overalls on and never blistered his feet.

He also raised an old squaw from the dead and every Indian in the country is ready to believe that he can consume granite boulders with the fire of his eye, and make water in the streams run up hill. The Indians are all preparing for the return to life of a number of dead Indians buried in a mountain south of Rhodes. They are preparing for a ghost dance and big feed, when the resurrected braves will have the best seats at the table.

They are peaceful at present but old Indian fighters say that they are liable to turn loose at any moment.

Furnished Rooms.

Parties desiring clean and comfortable lodgings, will do well to call on Mrs. Jennie Forrest at the Capitol Lodging House, South of the Capitol building, and one door East of this office. Finest of wines, liquors and cigars can be had at the bar.
